

Chamber gearing up for winter

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce is getting ready for a busy winter, and is presently seeking a chairperson to coordinate the annual Christmas Extravaganza, scheduled for Friday, December 2. A number of downtown business proprietors were present at the October 5 meeting of Chamber, and are interested in being involved in the planning process.

Good news for the Chamber members was brought by Treasury Branch Manager Mel Ryks, who indicated that his bank should be fitted with the long-awaited Automated Banking Machine by some time in December, if all goes well.

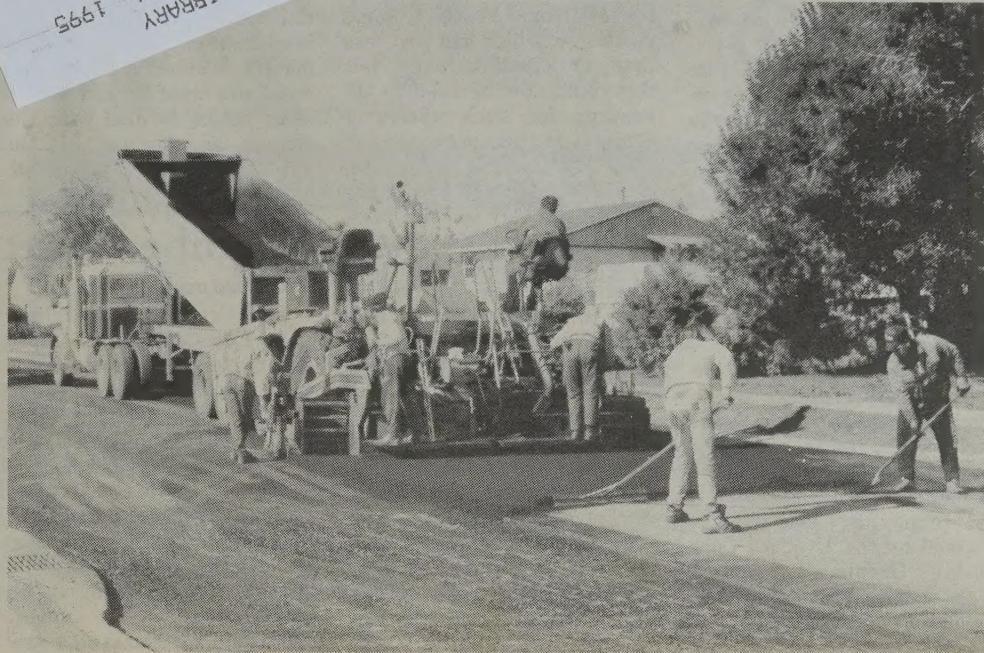

The Chamber had information on an upcoming Physician Recruitment Fair, but some members were not sure how this would apply, now that Elk Point is part of a health region. President Victor Stepa will call this area's representative on the health region board, John Trefanenko, to find out more details. The Chamber has been a part of several Health Care Connection recruitment drives in the past, but with no major success.

With the Town of Elk Point not showing an interest in becoming part of the Bi-Provincial Heritage Tourism Steering Committee, this information was passed on to the Chamber for their consideration. The Chamber agreed to fund the Committee's upcoming study and cataloguing of historic sites to the tune of $200, should the project go ahead. There is a possibility that the Elk Point Historical Society will also commit funding to the study.

Agriculture Committee representative Millie Orr reported on an upcoming beef breeders' field day scheduled for October 15 in Bonnyville, which will involve all of northeastern Alberta under the auspices of the recently formed North East Alberta Beef Breeders Association. That group also plans to host a bull sale in the spring of 1995.

THE FINAL STEP TO SMOOTHER STREETS - Among the blessings Elk Point residents counted Monday were the four freshly paved avenues that received their smooth finish last week, and marked an end to the potholes of the past. Enjoy them, everyone!

Town, Alberta Power discuss sub-station move

The possibility of moving the Alberta Power sub-station to a new location in the Town-owned area which houses the sewer lift station was discussed at length by Elk Point Town Council and Alberta Power's Terry Poulin at last week's regular meeting.

The Town and Alberta Power recently discovered what close neighbors they were when installation of a ground rod on the power line accidentally punctured the main sewer line. "It was a surprise to us that our line was within a metre of your sewer line," Poulin told Council. "This creates problems both now and in the future."

Mayor Ed Buck wants to know what happened to the Town's easement along the east side of Highway 41. When the highway was widened, the Town's easement was apparently purchased along with the land, and to all intents and purposes, no longer exists. Therefore, there was no easement registered to tell Alberta Power they could run into difficulties when they were told by the Highways Department to move their line out of the way of construction, and "we moved there on top of you," Poulin said.

Both parties are concerned by the close quarters. "If we have no easement, and have to dig up the sewer line, we're in trouble," Buck said. That the power line involved is the main transmission line to Bonnyville "is a concern to us," Poulin said.

Moving the sub-station now located at the corner of Highway 41 and Secondary Highway 646 closer to town has been carefully considered by Alberta Power for some time. Poulin brought a plan of the substation design and a proposed lot plan. The substation apparently would not be in the way of any activity required by the Town in conjunction with the sewer lift station, including allowing access for trucks to pump sewage if the station went down for some reason, such as a lightning strike.

The largest concern was with two poles that are very close to the sewer line, "which will still have to be there" if

By-election put on hold

Elk Point's by-election to fill three vacant Town Council seats was put on hold Monday, when only one person filed nomination papers. The Town must now accept nomination papers each day for a total of six days, until three nominees or more are found. This could mean we would not know until next Tuesday if there will be a by-election.

Nominations will be accepted each day between 10:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon, and on the day a third nomination is filed, will still have to remain open until noon. Therefore, four or more nominees could file papers, which would result in a by-election.

the sub-station is moved. Alberta Power would be willing to support these poles if work on the sewer line in that location were required, although a need for such work is unlikely. Public Works Superintendent Ron Fraess said there would be "no other reason than a line break - there's nothing there that can rot." One comforting factor is that "we know where your line is now," Poulin said.

Council later agreed that they have a good working relationship with Alberta Power, and agreed to allow the relocation of the sub-station to the site, as long as necessary conditions were contained in the documents. However, they also agreed that Alberta Power must pay the full cost of repair for the punctured sewer line.

A proposal from local design firm, Graphica, to re-front the sign at the south end of town currently bearing a Peter Fidler design and pointing out various attractions in the community, was sent to Council by the Utilities Committee. Graphica would replace it with the Town's new logo at a reasonable cost, and would even cost share if they were allowed to put a sign advertising their business nearby. This was tabled for further discussion during the preparation of next year's budget.

Council did not come to a unanimous decision regarding funding for the activities of the joint Town-and-Chamber Economic Development Committee. The Committee had asked for consideration of giving them funding left in reserves from a study some years ago, which had cost less than anticipated. They felt this could now be used to advantage for such upcoming projects as their proposed fun map and town profile brochure. Mayor Buck noted that "we give money to the Chamber already for that sort of thing. Just because the money is sitting there, it doesn't have to be used. We have to answer to the ratepayers." A motion by Buck to that effect was defeated. Councillor Dan Povaschuk said he felt economic development was very important to the community, while Councillor Bill Schuhmacher added that "you can't establish a committee and then not give them money to work with." Council then passed a motion to make the funding available to the Committee as it is needed.

Council did agree not to contribute to a planned Bi-Provincial Heritage Tourism study of historic sites. Information on this, as well as on a Physician Recruitment Fair, felt unlikely to be effective as regards Elk Point, was passed on to the Chamber of Commerce.

The Town has been asked by the contractor for permission to change their residential garbage pickup day to Wednesday, effective immediately. Council agreed that residents must be given sufficient notice to deal with the change, and agreed that the day could change, as of October 19.

Chamber meet

The Town and Chamber's joint Economic Development Committee will meet on October 13, so will have a report for the next meeting. They will be getting information on a conference which was held in Edmonton this past week, but which did not pertain sufficiently to their current stage of activities. Sid Holthe noted that if a suitable conference were scheduled, the committee would hope to send a delegate.

Age-wise workshop on intergenerational communication

FCSS has been working with the Pioneer Circle Society to bring an Age-Wise workshop to Elk Point. Age-Wise workshops were developed for seniors living in rural Alberta communities. Age-Wise workshops bring people together within their own community to explore current information and share life experiences.

With the assistance of trained facilitators, the Elk Point seniors will host a workshop on "Intergenerational Communication." Content includes information on talking styles, methods of talking and listening, talking within the family, and more. The materials contain current information and are presented in an interactive approach to encourage the sharing of experience and wisdom.

The workshop is open to the general public as people of all ages and abilities can benefit from the information. The Intergenerational Workshop is scheduled for Tuesday, October 25 at 1:30 p.m. at the Seniors Centre. Admission is free and refreshments will be provided.

STRESS OVERWHELMS

FIGHT IT!

Stress is an undefinable tension. It is a part of our daily lives and we must work to lessen the negative stresses around us. Here's a few ideas:

- Go for a walk in the park.
- Have a long, relaxing bath at least once a week.
- Sit outside in the early evening, just to enjoy the beauty of the season.
- Plant a garden.
- Balance work with play.
- Don't overcommit yourself... use your time wisely.
- Laugh.
- Get a massage.
- Hug someone.
- Plan ahead.
- Have a hobby.
- Take an hour each day just for yourself.
- Have a catnap.
- Repair something that doesn't work properly.
- Remember stress is often an attitude.
- Get plenty of sleep each night.
- Listen to those around you.
- Stop. Think.
- Do someone a favor.
- Take one day at a time.
- Move on to the next job - don't brood about the past

- Don't try to solve the world's problems.

- Smile!

Crossing the river by ferry

SOLID GOLD SKATERS - A handsome plaque to recognize Elk Point Skating Club's Gold Test skaters was unveiled last Saturday. From left to right are Miguel Poulin, son of the plaque's creator Herman Poulin, gold test achievers Tobey Conrad (Gold Dance), Elisabeth Ludlage (quadruple gold), Shauna Loughran (quadruple gold) and Charlene Anderson (triple gold), with David Buksa of the Elk Point Elks Lodge, donors of the plaque. Not shown is Katharina Ludlage (triple gold). The rows of nameplates signify skaters who have achieved Gold Dance, Gold Freestyle, Gold Figure and Gold Artistic/Interpretive Dance status.

CHARIOTEERS RAISE HEART AND STROKE FUNDS - Helmeted charioteers and their friends climbed aboard a bicycle built for 30 on Friday, Sept. 23 to tour the town as they raised funds for the Heart and Stroke Foundation. The 'horse-drawn' conveyance turned plenty of heads en route.

Many of our residents still remember crossing the North Saskatchewan River by ferry. This method of crossing the river ended in 1950 - our first bridge replaced the ferry that year.

Our earliest settlers crossed the river on the Hopkins Ferry which was built in 1908. It was situated three and a half miles west of our bridge site. A second ferry was put into operation in 1913 just about where our bridge is located. This ferry was in operation for 37 years. A few years after this ferry was built, the one at Hopkins was relocated about nine miles west. It was then known as the Spencer ferry.

Crossing the river by ferry was often a frustrating experience. Often you arrived just as the ferry had left for the south shore. This meant a long wait. At the best of times, it proved to be a slow method, but unfortunately it was the only available way and we had to accept it.

Ferries generally operated from 8 a.m. to about midnight. You had to plan your trips according to this schedule.

Our first ferries relied on the river current when crossing the river. A heavy cable was strung across the river and the ferry had another sliding cable attached to it so it wouldn't take off up the river. In later years a motor was installed on the ferry making it more manoeuvrable.

There was always an interruption during spring break-up and again during freeze-up. During this period the ferry could not be used. People crossed the river in a cage connected to the overhead cable. Many people did not like this method of travel and switched their business to other towns south of the river. It always meant a decided drop-off in business to our local businessmen.

Our first bridge was built in 1950. In 1981 an oil tanker went out of control and burned on the north end of the bridge, making it unsafe. A temporary ferry was installed while bridge repairs were being made. Once more, we had to cross the river by ferry.

Today there are very few ferries still operating in Alberta. Due to a large increase in traffic, the Province has replaced the ferries with bridges.

The Family Forum

Jim MacLellan

Perhaps the "reverse trade show" has prompted me... who knows, but let me say this, "Business has a role in family health!" In the days of user-friendly electronics, we need "user-friendly economics." Craig MacKie, "Demographic Change and Quality of Life Concerns in Postwar Canada" says, "While most families in Canada have both spouses working, family incomes have stagnated or actually declined in real terms..."

Today, few employers pay wages whereby a traditional family can have their needs met. Young people today tend to be fighting for low-income jobs with low benefits, as they enter the workplace. (Not a nice fight!)

Corporations are still concerned with the bottom line.

Have you considered this: A married employee, whose spouse can remain at home can devote far more energy to your business? Governments and workplaces must also respond to the Year of the Family. I'm not saying that money makes a good family, but I am saying that reducing financial stress; creating more opportunities for one spouse to remain at home; and developing maximum flexibility in work hours, MAY just bring you the bottom line you want. What do you think?

Elk Point firemen have a busy year

Elk Point Volunteer Fire Department has had a busy year, attending 17 County fires, 19 in-town fires and three rescues since the beginning of 1994.

There are currently 25 firefighters on the roster, including six new members: Doug Olstad, Lang Ellison, Mike Habiak Jr., Gordon Keryluk, Dave Dery and Clayton Anderson. The newcomers join a squad of dedicated volunteers, some with over 20 years of experience. Fire Chief Ken Palamarek, for example, joined the Department in 1972.

Many thanks from the community to these hard-working, always-prepared individuals, who stand ready to help when the siren sounds. You're much appreciated!

Home fire drills: practice what you plan

Each year about 400 people in Canada, and 30 in Alberta, die in fires. The majority of these victims die in their own homes. Hold a fire drill at least once a year so you and your family don't become a fire statistic.

PLAN
• Draw a floor plan of your home. Mark at least two exits from each room. One will be your main route; the other will be an alternate, in case the main route is blocked by fire or thick smoke.

• Consider the limitations of small children and disabled people in your fire escape plan. Teach small children NOT to hide under the bed or in closets during a fire.

• Escape routes such as windows, stairways and hallways must be kept clear. Windows should open readily, but teach children that it's okay to break a window during an emergency. A blanket placed over the window sill may prevent cuts from broken glass. Rope or chain ladders for upstairs windows could save a life if the usual exits are blocked.

• Decide on a place for everyone to meet outside. The spot should be far enough away from the house to be safe from the fire.

• Share your escape plan with overnight visitors and babysitters.

PRACTICE

• Hold a home fire drill at least once a year. Include the entire household. To start the drill, have everyone in their bedrooms. Keep doors closed or open, whichever you normally do at night. Sound the alarm by having one person shout or push the test button on the smoke alarm.

• Roll out of bed and crawl to the door (in a smoke-filled room, air near the floor is fresher). Open the door slowly and cautiously. If there is fire or smoke, use another exit. Meet outside at your pre-arranged spot. Never stop to retrieve valuables and do not re-enter a burning building.

• Review the procedure for calling the fire department. One person should be designated to make the call from a neighbor's house.

• A little time spent on fire drills may save lives if fire ever strikes your home.

Test your smoke alarm for life!

Smoke alarms are a powerful fire safety tool. In fact, if you have a fire, having a smoke alarm nearly doubles your chances of survival. But only working smoke alarms can save lives.

Make sure your smoke alarms work:

- test them monthly—place a just blown out candle underneath the alarm and let the smoke drift upward
- replace batteries at least once a year or as needed
- replace worn out alarms, or those older than 10 years, with new units

Know what to do when the smoke alarm sounds. Develop a home fire escape plan and practice it regularly.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
OCTOBER 9-15, 1994

Alberta
LABOUR
Fire Commissioner's Office

Sound the alarm!

Residents across Canada will be making a lot of noise this October. Or at least that's the hope of fire departments, governments, schools, industry and community groups.

Fire Prevention Week takes place October 9 to 15, 1994. This year's theme is Test Your Smoke Alarm For Life. Alberta Labor Minister Stockwell Day encourages you to not only test your smoke alarm this week but to do so once a month. "It's been proven that smoke alarms save lives - but only if they are working," says Day. "Taking a minute a month to test your alarm could save your life or the lives of those you care about."

Testing your smoke alarm is only one part of the fire safety equation. Events and activities across the province will promote what each of us can do to reduce the risk of experiencing or being injured in a fire.

"An average of four people are killed and 35 are injured in fires in Alberta each month," says Day. "What makes this tragedy even worse is that the majority of these deaths and injuries can be prevented."

To learn more about fire safety, contact the members of your own fire department. But before you phone them... test your smoke alarm for life.

Pie sale, bingo both successful

WHICH PIE TO PICK - Was a difficult decision for Adele Mandryk and son James, at last Friday's Elk Point Library Pie Sale.

Michele Ducek
Librarian

Congratulations to the Friends of the Elk Point Public Library for another successful bingo. The next bingo is scheduled for January.

The library's Pie Sale was last Friday and I would like to thank everyone who baked pies for the sale and everyone who purchased pies as well.

The new books just keep on coming. Here are a few more to whet your appetite:

A popular author among Elk Point readers, Dick Francis scores again with Wild Horses. When a confused old man makes his dying confession to Thomas Lyon, mistaking Thomas for a priest, Lyon finds himself torn between revealing what he knows or respecting the confidentiality of a death bed confession. Either way he is in big trouble.

A few more titles in several popular youth series have recently arrived. Fans of Nancy Drew, the Hardy Boys, the Babysitters Club, Sweet Valley High, the Saddle Club, Pee Wee Scouts and Christopher Pike can check out the new books at the library.

LIBRARY CALENDAR:

Friday mornings: Storytime is every week at 10:30 a.m. Stories, songs, crafts and more.

Friday, October 28, 1994: Storytime is having a Halloween party. Kids can come dressed in their Halloween costumes for stories, games, prizes and treats. There's no rule that says parents can't dress up as well. Show your ghoulish spirit and plan to attend.

DID YOU KNOW:

Thanksgiving Day in Canada was formerly celebrated on the last Monday in October. In 1957 the Canadian government proclaimed the second Monday in October for the holiday.

Thank You

I would like to thank everyone who helped Charles over the years. I know it was greatly appreciated. He was a very private person, so a funeral service was not held. His ashes were spread on the farm where he spent all his life. I believe this would be the way he would want it, on his behalf, I thank you.
